P-Will you kindly com im your paper to which is a the control of the contro far as Mr. Chaffin is concerned but I beg of him to remember that there is often a more letellectual scrub found in the common herd. I did express surprise at his ignorance and I kindly beg his sardon. He freely admits through tickets and baggage ch tination. he knows nothing of the tariff, and for For rates, time tables etc, call on sale withhere I am ready to admit that he knows nothing of any other subject. He tells us that certain abuses have crept into both political parties. Would it not be more correct way that many abuses have crept into the laws made by these "skilled men" that he says we elect to make laws for us. It ought to occur to Mr. Chaffin that he is inconsistent when he tells us in the beginning of his article that he knows nothing of the tariff question and further on he says the tariff and transrection. Query, How does he know that they need correcting. Mr. Chaffia calls attention to my past present and future, and tells the public that once I was posperous but now I am poor, that I have become poor, hairy blasphemous. It is certainly to my credit that by patient toil and forced and forced in and forced and order of sale issued by I. H. Fort cierk of the district in and for Webster country, Nebraska, upon a decree in an action pending therein wherein The Nebraska Loan and Trust Company is plaintiff and ira decree in an action pending therein wherein The Nebraska Loan and Trust Company is plaintiff and ira decree in an action pending therein wherein The Nebraska Loan and Trust Company is plaintiff and ira decree in an action pending therein wherein The Nebraska Loan and Trust Company is plaintiff and ira decree in an action pending therein wherein The Nebraska Loan and Trust Company is plaintiff and ira decree in an action pending therein wherein The Nebraska Loan and Trust Company is plaintiff and ira decree in an action pending therein wherein The Nebraska Loan and Trust Company is plaintiff and ira decree in an action pending therein wherein The Nebraska Loan and Trust Company is plaintiff and ira decree in an action pending therein wherein The Nebraska Loan and Trust Company is plaintiff and ira decree in an action pending therein wherein The Nebraska Loan and Trust Company is plaintiff and ira decree in an action pending therein wherein The Nebraska Loan and Trust Company is plaintiff and ira decree in an action pending therein wherein The Nebraska Loan and Trust Company is plaintiff and ira decree in an action pending therein wherein The Nebraska Loan and Trust Company is plaintiff and ira decree in an action pending therein wherein The Nebraska Loan and Trust Company is plaintiff and ira decree in an action pending therein wherein The Nebraska Loan and Trust Company is plaintiff and ira decree in an action pending therein wherein The Nebraska Loan and Trust Company is plaintiff and ira decree in pertation laws undoubtedly need corphemous. It is certainly to my credit that by patient toil and frugal saving I carned money and accumulated a fair amount of property and it is certainly not to my discredit that I lost a large portion of it before settling Nebraska and lost it in an effort to assist others in the battle for life, in contributing to the support of the family of a deceased relative. If I had directed my efforts to the business of money getting by the same method Mr. Chaffin has sometimes directed efforts I might be in the possession of more wealth and less self respect. It is certainly better to have carned property and lost it, than to go through life without earning any property to lose. Will he kindly tell the people the cause of his own poverty, and if there is not some biasted along by the way side of his own wested along by the way side of his own the middle of the country was had to block the court was 'holden,' on the south was tent of olicek twenty three (20) in Seath and nore's addition to be town of Red Cloud described as follows: Beginning at the south-west dentity three (20) and running thence or and though the south west corner of and block to neighth avenue to place of beginning.

M. Ragan, Pitt's Atty. own life's journey the resurrection of the sale of the above described property is thereby psetponed for want of bidders until tree which would cause him pain. A fellow feeling ought to make the gentleman more kind but he reaches the climax when he tells the gentlemen farmers that his communications is directed especially to them and implores them not to lose their heads and their homes. It occurs to the ordinary mind even in the common herd that Mr. Chaffin sees in the present agitation among the farmers the indicators of danger to the political organization to which he belongs. The farmers begin to discover that the political bridges built by these "Skilled political mechanics," are detective in their designs and faulty in their construction, that others beside myself have fallen in them and been engulfed in the resistless current of financial destruction. Mr. Chaffin calls frantically to the farmers telling them not to employ any other mechansics of any other school. This kind of advice he furnishes to the farmers free, for the simple reason that the market is glutted with it.' At this time there seems to be at "over-production" of advice as it were, the demand not being equal to the supply for the reason that even these poor farmers of the common herd refuse to take it. Better shut down the advice mill and limit the out put by so doing. Mr. Chaffin may get a corneron advice but not on brains. The farmers seems to have the brains so consequently they do not feel the need of so much advice. Geodule VanWorz.
